

Mae Lee has been working in the Chinatown community for over 20 years on issues of immigration, environmental health, youth, housing, and voting/civic participation. For the past 2 years, she helped lead the Chinatown Working Group's efforts to develop guiding principles and partial action plans related to the neighborhood's immigrant community. She is currently the executive director of the Chinese Progressive Association, a community based organization in Chinatown/Lower East Side. She is also a board member of the New York Immigration Coalition, an advocacy organization of over 250 immigrant rights groups.
